Long-Distance Postcard Prompts

When your buddy is far away, mail can carry the check-in

HOW TO USE THIS SHEET, KINDLY

For friendships that live across miles or time zones. Once a month, pick one prompt, write it on a real postcard, and mail it. Real mail is slow accountability — the kind that says "I was thinking of you on a Tuesday." Keep the address on the card itself, not stored anywhere online.

1. "This month's small win: ____. It reminded me of you because ____."

   To:

2. "One thing I'm looking forward to next month is ____. What about you?"

   To:

3. "I restarted this week, gently. Here's the tiny version: ____."

   To:

4. "No ask, no update — just: I'm glad we're doing this."

   To:

5. "The thing I said I'd do: done / not done / half-done. Either way, still here."

   To:

6. "Question I've been sitting with: ____. No need to answer fast."
